ENVIRONMENTAL STRATEGY

Our company is inspired by nature. We strive to create and supply products that are sustainable and contribute to an environmental narrative, recognising businesses, nature and people are linked.

To reduce our carbon footprint, we place an emphasis on local manufacturing. Care for the environment and sustainability as a management responsibility are practised in all company facilities, across the organisation. By observing and documenting raw materials, the types and amounts of waste and energy consumption, we are able to minimise negative on the environment.

Thoughtful design and quality impact the lifespan of a product. We are committed to R&D and endeavour to deliver the best in safety, ergonomics, functionality, low maintenance and vandal-resistance. Every part is designed thoughtfully to make a positive impact on the environment. We develop our products using "Design for Dis-assembly" principles; allowing for easy dis-assembly, faster sorting and recycling of key components at end of product life.

To encourage recycling practices, Tilley Street and Park Furniture has adopted extended producer responsibility (EPR) strategies with our Take-Back Programme. This encourages customers to return their products to us for dis-assembly and recycling.

Our objective is to solve or avoid possible environmental problems through our own actions, by promoting sustainable consumption and future-oriented lifestyles. Tilley Street and Park Furniture, management and workers, live and work with the awareness that we need to make continuous improvements to contribute towards preserving our basis for existence.
